Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes the Commission for Common-Interest Communities and Condominium Hotels to adopt such regulations as are necessary to carry out the provisions of law relating to common-interest ownership, common-interest communities and condominium hotels. (NRS 116.615, 116A.200, 116B.805)

Under existing regulations, the Commission has adopted by reference the Guide to Homeowners' Associations and Other Common-Interest Realty Associations (Guide) for the purposes of providing recommended reporting principles and practices of financial accounting for common-interest communities and unit-owners' associations for condominium hotels. (NAC 116.410, 116B.160) Sections 2, 5, 26 and 27 of this regulation revise the name of this publication to the Guide to Homeowners' Associations and Other Realty Associations and update the price and information for obtaining a copy of the Guide.

Existing regulations require the executive board of a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community to provide to the Real Estate Division of the Department of Business and Industry the names, mailing addresses and telephone numbers of the executive board. (NAC 116.385) Section 3 of this regulation specifies that an executive board is required to provide to the Division the individual mailing and electronic mail addresses of the members of the executive board.

Existing law imposes certain duties on the members of an executive board of a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community. (NRS 116.3103) Existing regulations authorize the Commission, in determining whether a member of an executive board has performed such duties, to consider whether the member has engaged in certain acts, including whether the member has committed an act or omission which amounts to incompetence, negligence or gross negligence. (NAC 116.405) Section 4 of this regulation additionally authorizes the Commission to consider whether the member has committed an act or omission which amounts to: (1) intentionally hindering the ability of the executive board or a member of the executive board to conduct business; or (2) acting without authority granted by the executive board to a member of the board.

Existing law requires a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community to establish adequate reserves for the repair, replacement and restoration of the major components of the common elements and any other portion of a common-interest community that the association is required to maintain, repair, replace or restore. (NRS 116.3115) Existing law requires the executive board of the association to prepare a budget to provide adequate funding for such reserves. (NRS 116.31151) Section 6 of this regulation makes changes relating to the estimated amount of reserve funds necessary in the projected fiscal year that an executive board is required to include in the budget to maintain the reserve.

Existing law requires the executive board of a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community to cause to be conducted, at least once every 5 years, a study of the reserves required to repair, replace and restore the major components of the common elements and any other portion of the common-interest community that the association is obligated to maintain, repair, replace or restore. (NRS 116.31152) Existing regulations establish when the 5-year period for conducting such a reserve study commences. (NAC 116.427) Section 8 of this regulation specifies when such a 5-year period concludes and when the next full reserve study must be conducted. Section 7 of this regulation makes changes relating to the information included in a reserve study and revises the definition of "adequately funded reserves." (NAC 116.425) Section 9 of this regulation revises provisions relating to the submission of a summary of a reserve study by the executive board to the Division. (NAC 116.435)

Existing law requires certain unit-owners' associations of common-interest communities to pay a fee to the Real Estate Administrator for each unit in the association. (NRS 116.31155) Section 10 of this regulation removes certain obsolete provisions relating to the payment of such a fee. (NAC 116.445)

Existing regulations set forth certain requirements concerning audited financial statements of a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community and a unit-owners' association for a condominium hotel. (NAC 116.457, 116B.220) Sections 11 and 28 of this regulation require the executive board of a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community or a unit-owners' association for a condominium hotel to adopt the audited financial statement of the association at a meeting not later than 100 days after receiving the initial draft of the audited financial statement.

Existing law requires the Commission to adopt regulations establishing the amount of fees that a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community may charge a unit's owner to cover the costs of collecting past due obligations. (NRS 116.310313) Existing regulations accordingly set forth the maximum amounts that an association or a person acting on behalf of an association is authorized to charge a unit's owner in connection with a notice of delinquent assessment. (NAC 116.470) Section 12 of this regulation increases the authorized maximum amount of such fees.

Section 13 of this regulation revises the circumstances in which the Division is able to investigate and audit all financial accounts related to a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community. (NAC 116.550)

Existing regulations provide that a temporary certificate for the management of a common-interest community expires 1 year after the date on which the temporary certificate is issued, unless the person who holds the temporary certificate ceases to be employed by the unit-owners' association which made an offer of employment to the person before the completion of the 1-year period, in which case the temporary certificate expires when such employment ceases.

(NAC 116A.137) Section 16 of this regulation provides that a temporary certificate is specific to the association which made an offer of employment to the person who holds the temporary certificate and cannot be transferred to another association. Section 16 also provides that a person who holds a temporary certificate must remain employed by the association which made an offer of employment to the person, or an agent of the association, during the 1-year period of validity in order to be eligible for a certificate for the management of a common-interest community. Section 17 of this regulation accordingly provides that a person must meet such a requirement before the Division issues a certificate to the person. (NAC 116A.138)

Existing regulations require that a certificate for the management of a common-interest community be renewed biennially and provide that the renewal of a certificate becomes effective on the date the renewal is issued. (NAC 116A.140) Section 18 of this regulation instead provides that a renewed certificate becomes effective on the first day of the month immediately following the date on which the previous certificate expires.

Existing regulations require a provisional community manager of a common-interest community to be supervised by a supervising community manager for at least 2 years and, after completing 2 years of active experience, submit a statement to the Division from the supervising community manager that verifies certain information relating to such experience. (NAC 116A.155) Section 19 of this regulation specifies that a provisional community manager's 2 years of active experience must be supervised and requires a provisional community manager to submit a statement to the Division from each supervising community manager who oversaw the activity of the provisional community manager.

Existing regulations establish the qualifications and responsibilities of supervising community managers, including that a supervising community manager is responsible for supervising one or more provisional community managers or community managers. (NAC 116A.165) Section 20 of this regulation revises certain qualifications of a community manager and authorizes a supervising community manager to be responsible for supervising: (1) not more than five provisional community managers; and (2) one or more community managers. Section 15 of this regulation accordingly revises the definition of "supervising community manager." (NAC 116A.090)

Existing regulations require a provisional community manager to give written notice to the Division of any change in his or her supervising community manager within 10 business days after the change occurs. (NAC 116A.340) Section 23 of this regulation increases the period to provide such notification to 30 days. Section 23 also requires a supervising community manager to give written notice to the Division of the termination of any provisional community manager within 10 days after the termination occurs.

Existing law requires the Commission to provide by regulation for the issuance of certificates by the Division for the management of a common-interest community. (NRS 116A.410) Existing law also requires the Commission to recommend and approve for accreditation programs of education and research relating to common-interest communities, including the management of common-interest communities. (NRS 116.665) Section 21 of this regulation establishes provisions relating to the request and approval of distance education courses which fulfill the educational requirements for an original certificate for the management of a common-interest community. (NAC 116A.205)

Existing regulations provide that a course may not be taken for credit to meet the requirements for continuing education more than once during any two consecutive periods for renewal of a certificate for the management of a common-interest community. (NAC 116A.250) Section 22 of this regulation instead provides that such a course may not be taken more than once during a renewal period.

Existing regulations require an investigator who is investigating a complaint concerning a community manager to send a copy of the complaint to the community manager and the executive board of any unit-owners' association which relates to the subject of the complaint. (NAC 116A.350) Section 24 of this regulation instead requires such an investigator to send a summary of the complaint.

Existing law requires the Commission to adopt regulations providing for the registration of reserve study specialists. (NRS 116A.430) Existing regulations authorize a person to register as a reserve study specialist if, in addition to satisfying other requirements, the person successfully completes at least 3 hours of education in certain courses approved by the Commission. (NAC 116A.420) Section 25 of this regulation instead requires such a person to complete at least 6 hours of education in such courses, 3 hours of which must consist of instruction relating to financial matters.

Existing law previously required the Commission to adopt regulations establishing the maximum amount of the fees that a unit-owners' association of a common-interest community could charge for: (1) preparing a certificate for a unit's owner for the purposes of inclusion in a resale package for a purchaser; and (2) expediting the preparation of such a certificate. Assembly Bill No. 237 of the 2021 Legislative Session removes such a duty and instead provides that the fee for preparing such a certificate must not exceed $185 and the fee for expediting the preparation of such a certificate must not exceed $100. (NRS 116.4109, as amended by section 7.2 of Assembly Bill No. 237, chapter 268, Statutes of Nevada 2021, at page 1406) Section 31 accordingly repeals the provisions of existing regulations that establish the maximum amounts of such fees.

Existing law authorizes a hotel unit owner to charge a residential unit owner a reasonable fee to cover the cost of preparing a similar certificate and requires the Commission to adopt regulations establishing the maximum amount of the fee that the hotel unit owner may charge. (NRS 116B.760) Section 30 of this regulation revises the fees that a hotel unit owner may charge for preparing or expediting the preparation of such a certificate to conform with the maximum fees that an association is authorized to charge pursuant to existing law. (NAC 116B.360)

Section 31 also repeals certain definitions that duplicate those that are currently set forth in the Nevada Revised Statutes. Sections 1 and 14 of this regulation make conforming changes to eliminate obsolete references to certain sections that were repealed.
