MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Petitioner's Motion in Limine is a transparent attempt to deprive Respondent of his fundamental due process right to present a complete defense. The Division seeks to exclude virtually all of Respondent's witnesses and exhibits, characterizing them as "repetitious," "irrelevant," and "immaterial," without substantive analysis. However, as demonstrated below, each of Respondent's proposed witnesses and exhibits is directly relevant to the charges and necessary for the Commission's understanding of this matter.

Particularly troubling is the Division's attempt to exclude evidence that informed the Colorado
 Real Estate Commission's decision to decline imposing formal discipline pending Respondent's successful completion of probation. This evidence is highly relevant not only to the factual issues in this case, but also to demonstrating the reasonableness of a similar approach in Nevada.

The Division's characterization of this case as "straightforward" is misleading. While the Division attempts to frame this as a simple matter about a guilty plea, the reality is that Respondent entered into a Stipulation for Deferred Judgment and Sentence that will result in the withdrawal of his guilty plea and dismissal of all charges upon successful completion of probation—an arrangement that persuaded the Colorado Real Estate Commission to decline to impose discipline. This crucial context, which the Division conveniently omits, is directly relevant to the Commission's consideration of any potential discipline here.

For these reasons, and as further explained below, Petitioner's Motion in Limine should be denied in its entirety.

II. LEGAL STANDARD

NAC 645.845(2) requires that "[a]ny evidence offered at a hearing must be material and relevant to the issues of the hearing." However, this standard must be viewed through the lens of Respondent's constitutional right to due process, which includes the right to present a complete defense.

As the Nevada Supreme Court has recognized, a licensee has a constitutionally protected 6 property interest in his professional license. See Potter v. State Bd. of Medical Examiners, 101 Nev. 7 369, 371 (1985). This due process right necessarily includes the right to present a complete defense, 8 including relevant character evidence, mitigating evidence, and expert testimony. See Goldberg v. 9 10 Kelly, 397 U.S. 254, 267-68 (1970) (noting that due process requires "an effective opportunity to defend 11 by confronting any adverse witnesses and by presenting [one's] own arguments and evidence orally"). 12 Respondent's due process rights must be considered in tandem with the Commission's authority 13 under NAC 645.845. Evidence should only be excluded if it has no probative value whatsoever or if its 14 probative value is substantially outweighed by unfair prejudice or waste of time. 15

16 III. ARGUMENT

A. Respondent's Witnesses Are All Relevant and Material to the Issues Before the Commission

Respondent's witnesses are not only relevant to the factual issues in this case but also provide critical context regarding the Colorado Real Estate Commission's decision to decline imposing formal discipline pending completion of probation. This parallel approach by a sister regulatory body is highly relevant to this Commission's determination and represents persuasive authority that should be fully considered.

Each of Respondent's proposed witnesses will provide relevant, material testimony that is necessary for the Commission's full understanding of this matter.

Witness 1 - Andrew J. Arevalo

1	The Division does not object to Respondent testifying on his own behalf.
2	Witness 2 - Brooks Robinson, Esq.
3	Mr. Robinson's testimony is critical to the Commission's understanding of the Stipulation for
4	Deferred Judgment and Sentence entered into by Respondent. Mr. Robinson can provide essential
5	context regarding the nature of deferred judgments under Colorado law, including the fact that the guilty
7	plea will be withdrawn and the charges dismissed upon successful completion of probation. This
8	testimony is directly relevant to the Commission's consideration of whether and what discipline may
9	be appropriate under the circumstances.
10	The Division's assertion that the Commission can interpret the relevant criminal documents
11	without Mr. Robinson's testimony ignores the fact that deferred judgments are complex legal
12	arrangements that may not be readily apparent from the face of the documents. Expert testimony from
13	the attorney who negotiated the agreement will provide crucial context that would otherwise be missing.

1	Importantly, Dr. Chambers' assessment was relied upon by the Colorado Real Estate
2	Commission in its decision to offer Respondent a Stipulation for Diversion rather than formal discipline.
3	His testimony is therefore directly relevant to supporting a similar approach in Nevada.
4	Witnesses 4, 5, and 6 - Character Witnesses
5	Ciarra Craig, Arnold Argao, and Sandy Corrigan will provide relevant character testimony
6 7	regarding Respondent's professional competence, honesty, and integrity. The Division's suggestion
8	that character evidence is irrelevant to disciplinary proceedings is contrary to longstanding practice and
9	common sense. Character evidence is directly relevant to the Commission's assessment of what
10	discipline, if any, is appropriate.
11	Furthermore, each character witness will offer unique testimony based on their different
12	relationships with Respondent and observations of him in different contexts. Their testimony is not
13	"repetitious" simply because they may all speak positively about Respondent's character.
14	B. Respondent's Exhibits Are All Relevant and Material to the Issues Before the
15	Commission
16
17	Similarly, each of Respondent's proposed exhibits provides relevant, material evidence, much
18	of which directly informed the Colorado Real Estate Commission's decision to offer a Stipulation for
19	Diversion rather than formal discipline. The exhibits demonstrate not only Respondent's character and
20 21	rehabilitation efforts but also provide the factual foundation that supported Colorado's approach of
21	declining to impose discipline pending successful completion of probation.
23	Exhibit A - Division Documents
24	While Respondent acknowledges that these documents duplicate the Division's own exhibits,
25	having them admitted as Respondent's exhibits ensures they are part of the record regardless of whether
26	the Division chooses to introduce them.
27	Exhibit B - Biopsychosocial Assessment
28

1	This assessment, conducted in October 2023, provides relevant context regarding Respondent's	ĉ
2	mental state and efforts at rehabilitation prior to the entry of the deferred judgment. This information is
3	directly relevant to the Commission's consideration of Respondent's fitness to practice and any
4	potential discipline.
5	Exhibits C, D, F, G, and I - Character Reference Letters
6 7	These letters from various individuals who know Respondent in different contexts provide
8	relevant character evidence. The fact that some letters predate the guilty plea does not render them
9	irrelevant; rather, it shows the consistent nature of Respondent's character over time.
10	Exhibit E - Certificate of Attendance
11	This certificate demonstrates Respondent's voluntary efforts at self-improvement and
12	rehabilitation, which are directly relevant to the Commission's consideration of any potential discipline.
13 14	Exhibit H - Letter from Colorado Probation Officer
15	The Division does not object to this exhibit.
16	Exhibit J - Forensic Psychological Examination
17	This report, prepared by Dr. Chambers, provides expert analysis of Respondent's psychological
18	state and risk of reoffending, which are directly relevant to the Commission's assessment of
19	Respondent's fitness to practice and the necessity of any discipline. The Division's characterization of
20 21	Dr. Chambers as a "notorious expert witness for hire" is completely unsupported by any evidence and
22	represents an improper ad hominem attack rather than a substantive objection to the relevance of his
23	report.
24	C. The Division's Motion Asks the Commission to Violate Respondent's Due Process
25	Rights
26	The Division's Motion effectively seeks to prevent Respondent from presenting virtually any
27	defense. If granted, the Motion would exclude five of Respondent's six witnesses and nine of his ten
28
	Dama (- 6 9
	Page 6 of 8	ł

1	exhibits, leaving Respondent with essentially no evidence beyond his own testimony and a single letter
2	from his probation officer.
3	Such a severe limitation on Respondent's ability to present evidence would violate his
4	fundamental due process rights and would render any subsequent disciplinary action vulnerable to
5	judicial reversal. See Goldberg, 397 U.S. at 267-68; Potter, 101 Nev. at 371.
6	The Division's transparent attempt to restrict Respondent's evidence appears to be a tactical
8	maneuver designed to secure a quick win rather than a good-faith effort to promote efficiency or
9	relevance. The Commission should reject this approach and instead allow Respondent to present his
10	complete defense.
11	IV. CONCLUSION
